

ADRIANNE WEBER

Adrienne Weber is a London based, women's ready to wear collection, founded in 2022 by creative director Adrienne Weber.

The brand represents Adrienne's vision for the contemporary woman's wardrobe; classic staples, precise tailoring as well as local sourcing and production in England. This enables high-quality production and control over the supply chain, while preserving traditional artisanal techniques and limiting environmental impact, delivering long lasting investment pieces.

The brand's vision is to reinforce the idea of the woman's body as a blank slate with the possibility of endless identities through self-expression. Our pieces are designed to be open to interpretation by each individual woman who wears them.

Love of art expressed through garment making.
