

AETER

Sustainable Taiwanese leather bag brand AETER was established in 2019 and focuses on fine leather craftsmanship, design and customisation.

AETER's design concepts have evolved into the EQUILIBRIUM Collection, uniting architecture with leatherwork and hand-craftsmanship to provide meticulously structured designs, further enhanced by quality.

Furthermore, they pride sustainability through co-production, the act of sourcing leather materials as a byproduct of animal agriculture along with using non-toxic dyes within their production.

Our brand name is derived from the Latin word "aeternus", which stands for eternal. We believe the idea of eternity lies in the balance between structure, outline, form, and space, i.e., an EQUILIBRIUM, the name of our new collection.

If you couldn't make it and feel like you've missed out, the London Fashion Week - Designer Profile is open for now on where you can browse the collection and check more detail of AETER new collection.