

Isabel Manns

Isabel Manns is a contemporary British female owned brand with a commitment to sustainability.

The brand is invested in marrying innovation and creativity with ethical practices including a zero-waste policy and seasonless designs, these are part of the brand's 5 pledges to sustainability. All the prints are designed by Isabel in trans-seasonal colours and most of her designs are reversible, adding to the brand's mission to combat over consumption by creating designs for longevity.

Isabel's collections are a pattern play of hand painted prints that are inspired by nature, particularly the English countryside where Isabel grew up.

Isabel is heavily inspired by her customers and offers bespoke, semi-bespoke or customisation to items that can be seen in the Marylebone Hight Street store. This is perfect for weddings and other events as customers can choose from various options such as hem length, adding/removing sleeves, choice of fabric and even small alternations to make sure that the items fit the customer perfectly.

Isabel founded the brand in London, after graduating from the renowned Parsons School of Design in New York. Isabel has worked for numerous designers, such as Burberry, Emilia Wickstead and Elle Magazine in London and Naeem Khan and Tanya Taylor in New York.
